KLAHOOSE NATION TREATY NEGOTIATION FISHERIES INFORMATION REQUEST

Klahoose Treaty Department is requesting information from Klahoose Band Members in the form of a survey to help develop our position for treaty negotiations with respect to allocations for fish.

There are two components we have to define in treaty negotiations with respect to allocations for fish. The parties involved in negotiations at this treaty table have agreed to separate the components because different issues form the basis for negotiations on each. The first component we will be working on identifying is the domestic allocation, which in treaty means for “food, social and ceremonial purposes”. The way it stands right now the domestic allocation is a treaty right, constitutionally protected and incorporated into the legal agreement. The second component we will be asking for input on is the commercial fisheries. In particular where do you see the nation putting resources to in order to participate in commercial fishing activities as part of the nation’s economy. Information from the questionnaire will not be provided to the Federal or Provincial governments in this form, but will be used to develop our position for negotiations.

Thank you for taking the time to work with Eva Delorme & supporting staff to complete this questionnaire!

KLAHOOSE NATION TREATY NEGOTIATION FISHERIES INFORMATION REQUEST - GOALS

The following is a list of five potential Klahoose fisheries goals prepared for internal discussions with Klahoose First Nation members:

1. Suitable fishing capacity (fishing vessels, licences, and crew) so Klahoose members can harvest multiple species for FSC (Food, Social and Ceremonial) and commercial purposes;
2. Clearly defined domestic allocations (FSC) and access for each salmon species, halibut, groundfish, shellfish, crab and prawns;
3. Clearly defined commercial allocations for each salmon species, halibut, groundfish, crab, prawns, herring and shellfish;
4. Economically and environmentally sustainable aquaculture operations;
5. Resources and trained personnel for fisheries management, stock assessment and enforcement activities through a Klahoose fisheries program; and
6. Funding to support the initial development of the fisheries program and annual activities through Treaty related funding agreements.
